Staff meeting.

I saw Gordon Arneson.

Afterwards I met with Messrs. Humelsine, Tate and others, and we decided to issue a limited passport to Dr. Pauling on condition [redacted] he give us an affidavit stating [redacted] he is not and never has been a Communist. He is a specialist on proteins, and has had no access to classified information that he could communicate, even if he so desired, when he visits England.

There was great excitement around lunchtime today when Eisenhower was nominated on the first ballot.

Messrs. Thorp, Schaetzel and Sohm came to see me this afternoon to review various trade problems.

I talked a good many times yesterday to Messrs. Tannenwald and Foster about the Danish tanker case. [redacted] Eugenia Anderson will be home tomorrow. We have embodied our own Department's recommendation in a letter for Dean's signature, advising the President not to terminate aid to Denmark as the result of the delivery of the tanker.
